WAR NOTES.

Brusiloff is only 20 miles from Lemberg now.

London, July 5.—According to official dispatches from Petrograd the steady advance of Gen. Brusiloff's left wing, despite the desperate resistance of the Austro-Germans, indicates that in a few days his front will assume the form of a regular arc, centred on Lemberg.

The semi-permanent fortifications of the Austro-Germans, these dispatches say, have now all been captured and destroyed on this front where they were planned to hold the Russians while the Italian campaign progressed.

The Russians have revived methods of warfare of remote ages by unexpectedly introducing cavalry and sending them against enemy trenches with satisfactory results. The Russians have found that maddened horses cannot be stopped by bullets, while the Cossack riders present no easy mark when charging in their peculiar formation.

Fleeing from Lemberg.

London, July 5.—A Budapest dispatch to the Post says: "Considerable numbers of the population have been fleeing from Lemberg in the last few days for Hungary and Cracow.

LADY URSULA'S HUSBAND

FLORENCE WARDEN

World, Look & Co., Limited

She stood for a moment disconsolate, her anxiety and distress plainly visible in her gentle countenance. Then, with suddenness of decision, she beckoned him to follow her into the bedroom. There she turned and faced him again.

"Paul," she said earnestly, "it will cause me the very keenest distress if you buy me any more jewellery. Just think of the cost! Why, the rest of those I have will come to a great deal of money. I'm sure."

He put his hand gently and affectionately on her shoulder, with just that air of tender proprietorship which she could never resist.

"Look here, my dear," he said, "you always allow yourself to be guided by me, don't you, in things upon which I have set my heart?"

"Yes—yes, Paul."

She spoke with an air of timidity which was strange and touching in this tall, imperial-looking lady.

"Well, then, you must let me give you a pearl necklace to wear while your old jewels are reset. Otherwise you would be the only woman at Oare Court without jewels."

She looked up quickly.

"And don't you think that would be a sort of distinction," she asked, "I have some beautiful dresses, too, beautiful, indeed, dresses that make me ashamed to have so much money spent upon me. Believe me, I shall be quite an imposing person, without any ornaments."

He seemed to hesitate.

"Don't you let me have my own way," he said, "if I assure you that which would let me have this necklace upon very easy terms? Knowing that it is for Lord Gravenhurst's daughter they are wanted, the jeweller is going to let me down easy."

"What jeweller?" asked Lady Ursula.

"Never mind who it is. I can't trust you not to go to him and repudiate the bargain."

She looked shocked.

"Oh, Paul, when you might think, indeed I should never do that."

"To do you justice, I don't really think you would," said he in that indulgent tone which, to her mind, had an irresistible pliancy when applied to her, self-reliant and reserved as she usually was except to him.

"What are you going to pay for this necklace?" she asked, returning to the subject, which he would have been glad to do with.

"I am going to pay for it by instalments," said he evasively.

She clung to him, entreating with all the earnestness at her command.

"Don't do it, Paul. I beg you, I entreat you," urged she. "It would be a drag upon you, upon us both, for a long time, and nothing is worth such a sacrifice. Oh, Paul, my own dear Paul, will you have the heart to refuse me in a matter like this where I am, after all the person chiefly concerned?"

He affected to hesitate, and then, suddenly, he gave way.

"Have it your own way," he said; "I can't resist you. I'll take the necklace back tomorrow morning. I've engaged myself to nothing yet, as I had it on approval."

It was strange that, loving and trusting him as she did, Lady Ursula experienced a strangely chilling feeling of vague doubt as he made this reply. It was in those wondrous moments of life when she felt that she was not alone.

"I can't resist you," she felt the most lonely. For he had always been able to resist her in any matter upon which he felt in the least eager. But with all this, she was glad to have succeeded with him, and she put up her beautiful, fair face to receive the kiss he was eager to give her.

The necklace was to be returned to the jeweller the first thing on the following morning. In the meantime, affecting to be afraid that the night of it might make her waver, and throw them back into uncertainty about it, he refused to let her see the double row of pearls again to examine it more closely.

CHAPTER X.

There was much excitement at Winterset about the coming of the bride on a visit to her old home.

Lord Eastling, who had been gloomy and depressed, irritable and excited by turns, ever since the wedding and his short visit to Paris, consulted his younger sister as to what this unexpected early return might mean. He had confided the whole story of the meeting with her detective to Lady Emmeline, but to his parents he had been careful not to drop a hint of his suspicions of the new comers of the family.

What the effect would have been upon the earl, of learning that there was a suspicion that his new son-in-law was a swindler, did not bear thinking about.

While Lady Gravenhurst, although much more intelligent than her husband, was too much tied with her affection and her idea of her duty to her husband to be trusted with the secret.

Lady Emmeline, however, made an admirable confidante, interested, discreet, resourceful.

Her advice in the matter was excellent. It was that her brother should believe in all respects as if he had never heard the least thing against Paul Payne, and that he should, in the meantime, make all the inquiries he could about him.

Lord Eastling followed this inquiry to the letter. In the first place he took care not to go near Scotland Yard, where Redding would, he thought, expect him to tell him the result of his journey to Paris; and in the second place, he set his friend Hugo Jackson to find out all he could concerning Paul's family in America.

But the information obtained was nil. Henry Fitz, who had introduced Paul, knew very little about his family, except that they were Southerners, to the best of his belief.

The news of Lady Ursula's early return to Winterset, therefore, was intensely exciting, and the brother and sister met her at the little country station, and gazed at her with apprehension, expecting to see her haggard, pale, disillusioned, and eager to get back to the old home and her own family.

What was the surprise of both to see, when the train came in, a smiling, happy Lady Ursula, wearing a new and very smartly-cut Parisian costume and a more becoming hair than she had ever before been known to buy, who stepped out on the platform with an alertness which they had never seen in her. The thin outline of her face had changed; she was no longer so "Pre-Raphaelite" in appearance, as Emmeline said; and instead of the expression of spiritual aloofness which her countenance had worn in her maiden days, there was now a glowing expression of most human genuine contentment radiating from her fair face, and a new peacefulness and brightness in her blue eyes.

The change in her gave a sort of shock to both, for they had been commiserating their unhappy sister, tired for life to a wretched unworthy of her, and they had both been prepared to see in her a transformation of a wholly different and less desirable kind.

Lady Ursula could not fail to notice the odd hesitancy and shyness which this surprise produced in her brother and sister. But it made no difference to the warmth of her greeting, and indeed Lady Emmeline noticed at once that marriage had brought into Lady Ursula just the one change which was necessary to make her adorable: It had softened her austerity, her asceticism.

"What's the matter?" asked Lady Ursula, as she turned to accompany her sister through the station to the car waiting outside.

She spoke in a low voice, with a smile.

Lady Emmeline was for the moment rather confused.

"Well, well, we wondered what had made you come back so quickly in a fortnight instead of six weeks," she said.

"Oh, that was because of this election. The Jacksons want Paul to come and help them, and as we are all on the same side, and all keen, we, or rather Paul, didn't like to refuse. So he's gone on to Oare Court already, while I begged for a couple of days to come and see you all first."

Farmers' Bird Assistants

Some Insect Destroying Birds Found in Manitoba

(By J. D. A. Evans)

With the commencement of the nesting season we are privileged to observe the wondrous ingenuity of God's little feathered architects, a majority of whom have returned to Manitoba from distant zones, perchance thousands of miles above roar of sea storm in the journey from islands wherein climatic conditions permit bird life to spend winter in comfort and snug sustenance.

The writer does not profess to be a practical exponent of Manitoba's ornithological features. Nevertheless, residence of many years in this province has furnished him opportunity to study of its bird life and the application of such toward its economic value to agriculture.

Usually by the first week of May, a greater part of the bird migration has arrived in Manitoba. Adequate protection of insect worms or insect destroying birds has become a question of vital importance to the farmer. Within recent date it has been computed that if the family of insect destroying birds became extinct in Manitoba, within a few years the grain fields could not possibly raise a crop.

Until even a recent period certain birds highly valuable in the extermination of insect pests, were erroneously considered enemies of the farmer, and were destructive to grain and seeds.

As example the robin, one of the first feathered arrivals, was deemed a plunderer of the man's grain, fruit bushes. But investigation of the charge has acquired the robin, the bird of which consists, principally of harmful insects and worms.

A list of the most important insectivorous bird visitors to Manitoba comprises: Robin, Cat-bird, Wren, Kingbird, Oriole, Shrike, Jay, Woodpecker, Chickadee. To this number may likewise be added that alleged egg and chicken thief, the crow.

Indeed, the crow is one of the very few birds which consider potato bugs as a leading feature of the menu card. The blue jay, a voracious insect destroyer of cutworms and caterpillars. The woodpecker may be justly adjudicated a most potent factor in destruction of insect life.

Even the woodcock's hawk, a ground of this bird consists of tree trunks, from which is removed every available insect. The woodcock's hawk drills deeply into the timber and abstracts pests immune from attacks of other birds. From the day the sparrow hawk is hatched, its character has been stained with a charge of grain theft. The case cannot stand; careful scrutiny of the sparrow's habits will reveal the fact that it is a very decided enemy of caterpillars. The shrike, otherwise butcher bird, possesses great capacity for insect diet of every description. Hawks, owls, regarded enemies of the poultry yard, undoubtedly perform much useful work in the extermination of insects and gophers. A deadly agent against insects is the swallow. The whippoorwill must also be the recipient of notice, and reference is necessary concerning the night-hawk, that aviator among the birds verily a swooper down to earth as its eagle eye perceives such species of grain.

Beyond dispute is the fact that the main diet of bird life consists of insects and every variety of grub. Without assistance of the feathered tribes, crawling and winged pests of Manitoba's agricultural domain could not possibly be suppressed. Then, as a resultant issue, grain fields and gardens would speedily picture a condition we date not even think of.

A Railroad Novelist

C. P. R. Official Earns Distinction by Writing Novel

Perhaps the best known of the younger literary critics in America is Archie Bell of the "Cleveland Leader." For that reason his tribute to the work of a C. P. R. official is well worth attention. That work is a work of fiction, "Hearts and Faces" by name, and is as remote from Canadian railway life as anything could possibly be imagined. Here is what Archie Bell has to say to that effect.

John Murray Gibson was born in Ceylon. His father is a titled Scotchman. He is a graduate of Oxford, and he has taken special courses in subjects at various German universities. And despite some of these things popularly considered handicaps to getting on in the world, he came back to London and was soon editor of the well-known illustrated newspaper "The Illustrated." To retell the story of "Hearts and Faces" is to realize that it is not a work of art, but a realization that came home to him each day to his work at his editorial desk, he resigned and went to Paris to become an art student.

He lived in the famous Latin Quarter, he had a good time in five days in Colarossi's Atelier. Then he went to Italy and Algiers, Japan and China, and to many other countries.

Then one day, an official position was offered him by the Canadian Pacific Railway. At the age of forty-one he has achieved distinction as a practicing railroad man, despite all those years of preparation that were spent in pursuits so popularly believed to unfit a man for the practical life.

The business men are the ones who find the most time. In the past two years, John Murray Gibson has been attending to his railroad duties with one hand, and with the other hand has been writing a novel, which has just been issued by the famous publishing house of John Lane in England and S. B. Gundy in Toronto.

"Hearts and Faces" is the story of an artist. It treats of the artistic temperament as it salutes forth into the warmer world from the somewhat imprisoning environment of Scotland.

Sometimes the pictures are gay, sometimes somber; but they are never vulgar. Through them many characters with whom the reader has become acquainted in the earlier chapters. And these scenes, as in London and later in Germany and Italy, George Grange moves as the most important figure. It is the adventure of a soul. And each adventure is traced with a canny knowledge of life as it is, rather than as many writers would like to believe it should be.

And it was written by a railroad man! Still, there are enough examples of versatility in the art world to prove that such an achievement is possible. A merchant of Russia composed music that is now sung in the opera houses of the world. It does not lessen Padernski's ability as a pianist because he is a hotel keeper in Warsaw. John Alden Carpenter, who is a "business man," yet he composed "Adventures in a Perambulator," which caused the staid music critics of the country to prick up their ears in the last two years.

Caesar Franck was a school-teacher, even when he was writing his most famous symphony.

A National Asset

Good Roads Prove to be of Untold Value in Wartime.

The Secretary of the Lincoln Highway association in a recent publication demonstrated that, when that highway is completed from coast to coast, it would be possible to transport an army of 100,000 men with all their equipment, 3,400 miles across the continent in less than three weeks. If the 50,000 motor cars needed were not available, they could be turned out in American factories in two weeks' notice. Or, if the men were sent by rail, the burden of transporting supplies could be taken off the railroads by auto trucks traversing this highway. The Lincoln highway should become the backbone of a great national system of network roads. Three millions have been spent on it, since its declaration in 1913, and no time should be lost in putting the whole route in permanent hard-surface condition. Other routes and trails cross it and paralleling it are rapidly being developed. In peace or war, good roads are vitally necessary.—Minneapolis Journal.

We Cannot Retaliate

The British will never abuse German prisoners as Germany has abused British prisoners. To retaliate in kind would be to descend to the British Empire is incapable. Neither can the British murder women and children on sea and land as the Germans will murder the women and children of the enemy and of neutrals. We have to win the war without resort to the methods of the Boer.

FRIDAY, JULY the 7th, 1916

Note and Comment

There was a small celebration here on Friday, over the closing of the bars in Alberta. The bunch around town kept up their spree until well along in the morning and very few in the neighborhood enjoyed much sleep that night.

The Local Hotel is under different management now, having been taken over by the Last West Lumber Co.

For Germany's supply of new soldiers there remains nothing but the boys who grow up as the war proceeds. The class of 1918, more than half of whom are not yet 18 years old, may have already been drawn into the fray. Behind them at a years interval come the class of 1919 and so on. But the wastage of this war is so many times more rapid than the recruitment available from the younger classes. The 1918 class will not furnish more than 400,000, individuals, and probably less, and they will be of exceedingly poor quality. The German wastage per year is not 400,000 nor twice that figure, nor four times, it is more like six or seven times 400,000, so that Germany will be short of men to take up the terrible wastage going on every day.

The Allies have thought this war through. They have perfected a plan that is sound. It only remains to carry it out along the lines laid down. Russia has made the first move and against the weakest front in the Tuetonic belt. Italy soon followed and now the Germans are in the defensive before the British and French. The next step will be the Balkans, and there will be another great drive there in the near future.

"There can be no end to the struggle" says the Berliner Tageblatt, "until the soil of England is saturated with the lifeblood of its people." This outburst was indulged in after the naval battle of Jutland, and, as it is the language of baffled rage more than jubilation, it indicates the real feelings of well informed Germans over their great naval "victory" by which the supremacy at sea was "wrested from Britain."

King Constantine has demobilized the Greek army and is hiding behind the kitchen sink with a wash-boiler over his head.

There is no doubt about the genuineness of Henry Ford's pacifism. He announces his intention to discharge permanently all his employees, who, in the hour of national danger, enlist in any branch of the American army.

His pacifism is for home consumption as well as export.

Rock-a-bye, baby,
Up on a bough,
I'm buying your milk
From a Certified Cow.

Hush-a-bye, baby,
Don't wriggle and cry.
They're boiling your bottles
In borax and lye.

Rock-a-bye, baby,
On the tree top,
If any one trots you
You tell 'em to stop—

Shun the trot horse
When you go for a ride,
For he will work harm
To your little inside.

Hush-a-bye, baby,
Don't suck at your thumbs,
Some beast of a microbe
Will perch on your gums.

Don't chew, or bacilli
Will creep down your throat,
If you gotta bite something
Here's a sterilized goat.

Infant, don't kiss me,
That breaks all the laws,
Unless you should kiss me
Through carbolic gauze.

Rock-a-bye, baby
Don't wriggle and squirm,
Nothing is near you
That looks like a germ.

JUST RAIN.

I sing no song of politics,
Conventions only give me pain,
When every day from six to six,
There's rain.

In dampened air I rise at dawn,
And shudder as I hear again,
Upon my over-moistened lawn,
The rain.

It permeates my mackintosh,
Thro' my chapeau it soaks my name,
I need no Croton, for I wash
In rain.

Don't blame the mother of the calf
If very thin the milk you drain,
The weather, Sir, has made it half
Just rain.

O lovely moonlight skies evoked,
Deserted is the lover's lane,
Since couples on their walks are soaked

By rain.

There is no sun! to look is vain,
There is no moon, no skies remain,
There's only rain, rain, rain,
Rain, rain.

Thrifty Danes Win Trade

Quality of Danish Butter is so High That Markets Rapidly Extending

In Denmark the bread is home-baked. The women spin woolen yarn which the village weaver makes into cloth, or which they knit into stockings. The women make their own dresses. Often they make clothes for their husbands and sons. The men make wooden shoes for the family, and house furniture and farming implements. And the efficient Danes set Europe an example of intensive farming and dairying. One result is that Danish butter is eaten in countries east of the Suez Canal and south of the equator. Vast quantities of Danish butter are shipped into the British Isles and to continental countries, but the output is so great, the quality so high, and the reputation of Danish butter so widespread, that it finds customers in lands as remote as the Danish farms as Patagonia or Tahiti.

Jutland formerly was described by geographers as a sterile waste. It is now a scene of highly profitable farming. The pastures are so small that every blade of grass must be turned into milk. The farmers are so provident that they tether their cows in rows and allow them to crop the grass within reach removing them to the next uncropped grass the next day, and thus steadily moving each row down. When the far side of the plot of ground has been reached the grazing was begun has grown enough to be cropped again. The humidity in the atmosphere keeps Danish pastures green when those of many countries are parched and the process of marketing grass as butter is not often interfered with by drought.

A Man's Worth

depends upon his power to produce what the world recognizes as of value.

And when you skimish around you'll find that this power—which is just power of mind and body—depends to a remarkable degree on the food one eats.

For highest accomplishment one must have the best values in food—food which builds well-balanced bodies and brains.

Grape-Nuts FOOD

has that kind of value. It contains all the nutriment of whole wheat and barley, including the important mineral elements so often lacking in the usual diet.

Grape Nuts comes ready to eat, is easy to digest, nourishing, economical, wonderfully delicious—a help in building men of worth.

Some Famous Riders

Galaxy of Riding Stars Will Give Exhibition of Daring Feats at Moose Jaw Stampede

Among the many bucking-horse riders who will compete at the Moose Jaw Stampede, July 11th to 14th, are five of the best known and most daring riders in the world.

Most famous of this quintet are Emory LaGrande, the present world's champion, who is beyond doubt the greatest rider who ever lived, and "Slim" Parker, of the "Q's" Ranch, Sage Creek, Alta. Parker is hardly less famous and daring a rider than LaGrande, and these two men make a pair of stampede performers whose work on the plunging maddened outlaws is worth a journey of many miles to see.

With them will be Afra Triplett, one of the most dashing riders ever produced in Oklahoma, and "Mexican Louie," a half-breed, who is known as the greatest rider ever sent out from California, and the man who was second to LaGrande at the Gleichen, Alta. Stampede last year. The fifth of this famous group of riders is Joe MacDonald, a cattle hand on a ranch south of Maple Creek, who is famous throughout the north-west cattle lands as a daring and marvellous bucking-horse rider who never gives up till his wild mount is cowed and beaten.

This galaxy of riding stars, as well as many others, have already entered the Stampede bucking-horse contests, while days of equal magnitude in the fields of roping, track-rope, bull-dogging, and wild horse racing will be present to make the Moose Jaw Stampede the greatest frontier celebration ever held.

WHO HAS FOUND NEW HEALTH IN DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

Philip McLeod Tells How He Suffered From Kidney Trouble for Years and Found a Quick and Complete Cure in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Tarbot, Victoria Co., C. B. (Special).—Philip McLeod is just one more of the many residents in this neighborhood who have found new health in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I have used Dodd's Kidney Pills with great success," Mr. McLeod states. "For years I had kidney trouble and could get nothing to help me. Hearing of what Dodd's Kidney Pills have done for others led me to use them. Five boxes cured me completely."

"I have recommended Dodd's Kidney Pills to many people. I cannot speak too highly of them." The testimony of people who have been cured is better than all the publicity in the world. Dodd's Kidney Pills are purely and simply a kidney remedy. If you have kidney trouble all you need to do is to ask others, they will tell you that Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure you. They will also tell you that Dodd's Kidney Pills cure rheumatism, dropsy, heart disease, diabetes, gravel and Bright's disease. That is because all these diseases are either kidney diseases or are caused by diseased kidneys.

The Mesopotamian Expedition

It is a complete misconception to regard the Mesopotamian expedition as an unnecessary side-issue. It was necessary, it was wise, and, in spite of the fall of Kut it must be pursued with all possible energy and vigor. It was necessary for the defence of our own interests in Persia and on the gulf; it was wise as a means of relieving Egypt and assisting the Russians, and it must not be pursued in co-operation with Russia, to the fulfillment of the original design.—Westminster Gazette.

The Pill That Leads Them All—Pills are the most portable and compact of all medicines, and when easy to take are the most acceptable of preparations. But they must fully meet all requirements. Accurately compounded and composed of ingredients proven to be effective in regulating the digestive organs, there is no surer medicine to be had anywhere.

A collector of subscriptions for the brass band fund once came across a farmer who was noted for his meanness. To his surprise the farmer at once consented to subscribe fund as large a sum as any he had yet received. Mr. Harbottle, he said, addressing the farmer, "you are surely very fond of music, to give so much?" "Oh, yes," said the farmer; "they're practicin' for the crows from mornin' to night, they're practicin', an' I'm grateful."

Girls to Study Farming

Alberta to give Girls Opportunity of Studying Agriculture

"Equal rights" are to be extended to women who wish to take up agricultural courses in any of the three schools of agriculture in the Province of Alberta. The courses have been taken by a number of young women of the province and have proved very beneficial. Recently there have been applications from girls who wish to study farming on a scientific basis.

The girls have previously been taking the Domestic Science courses, but apparently this field was not broad enough to satisfy the female spirit of the West. So it has been decided to place the entire work of the schools on the basis of "Equal Rights."

To meet the demand which has been made for courses—the members of the council decided to urge upon the provincial government the desirability of establishing more technical schools throughout the province. The future of the West is certainly bound up in her agricultural resources. Therefore too much emphasis cannot be placed upon agricultural education. Scientific farming as a profession is more suitable for women than are many of the so-called learned professions in which they have already entered. Alberta is wise in placing no restrictions on the educational rights of women in this respect.

Miller's Worm Powders, being in demand everywhere, can be got at any chemist's or drug shop, at very small cost. They are a standard remedy for worm troubles and can be fully relied upon to expel worms from the system and abate the sufferings that worms cause. There are many mothers that rejoice that they found available so effective a remedy for the relief of their children.

Battled by an over-ambitious journalist, a British cabinet Minister administered a neat rebuke. "How long do you think the war will last?" was the final question of a long series asked by the interviewer. Very promptly the Minister asked: "Very long is a piece of string!" The interviewer stared at him, astounded. "I—I don't know," he gasped. "Neither do I," said the Minister, cordially. "I'm glad we agreed about something. Good morning."

QUICK HELP FOR CHEST SORENESS, HOARSENESS; ALL CONGESTION MADE TO GO QUICKLY!

Worst Cold or Sore Throat Cured in Quick Order

RUB ON NERVILINE

Rub Nerviline plentifully over the neck and chest—rub it in well—lots of rubbing can't hurt. The relief will be surprising.

Nerviline is effective because it is powerful—about five times stronger than an ordinary liniment. Nerviline is penetrating, sinks in through the tissues, gets right in where the soreness and congestion really are. Its action is marvellously soothing. Rubbed on at night, it draws out the inflammation, and before morning takes away that feeling of tightness, and stops the cough entirely. Where can you find so powerfully searching a relief as Nerviline for a bad cold? Search the world over and you'll discover nothing half so good.

For nearly forty years Nerviline has been quickly curing colds, coughs and throat troubles. Thousands use it for rheumatism, sciatica and neuralgia—they all speak well of this grand family liniment, because they have proved its almost magical power.

Whenever you have an ache or pain, be it neuralgia, sciatica, lumbago, joint or muscle stiffness, always remember that Nerviline is the quickest, safest cure. Every good dealer in medicine sells the large size family size bottle of Nerviline, trial size 25c, or direct from the Catarhoque Co., Kingston, Canada.

Rescues Under Fire

Pte. F. Watson, (Chatham, Ont.) and Pte. J. Payne, of the Canadian Scottish have both been awarded the Military Medal. A comrade, writing from the trenches says:

"On the morning of April 3 the Germans concentrated an intense bombardment on certain dug-outs and support trenches. No stretcher-bearers or other medical personnel being on the spot, rescue work was undertaken by Ptes. Watson and Payne. Nine times they went out under heavy fire, applying first aid to the injured and carrying them back to cover. For their gallantry at least seven men owe their lives. One of these, who had been buried in a dug-out, was released after much labor while the bombardment was still at its height."

Keep Minard's Liniment in the House.

Nellie, aged four, was gazing intently at the visitor's new bonnet.

"Well, dear," asked the lady at last, "what do you think of it?" "Oh, replied the small observer, "I think it's all right. Aunt Mary told me it was a perfect fright, but it doesn't frighten me any."

War Here Craze in Germany

Wooden statues to the memory of heroes is the latest craze that is afflicting Germany. The display of Iron Crosses lasted for some months, but the ridicule of the foreign press, together with their multiplicity, killed that craze. Now if any one belonging to city, town, or village is reported officially or otherwise, as doing some conspicuous deed at the front, up goes a wooden statue with all speed.

It has become quite a new profession, and, says a wag, will continue to be so till the Berlin Military Heresy discovers that the need of the army show that the lumber stores need replenishing. The statue to von Hindenberg set the pace to the craze, although up to the present the monument holds a record for size. Thirty tons of spikes were used to pierce the wooden god as a means of collecting money for the privilege of showing appreciation of hero's deeds by driving a nail into it.

Twelve thousand four hundred members of trade unions have left Canada for the front since the opening of the war. Of these, 459 were British reservists who responded to the call to join the colors in England.

ELECTRICITY and NERVE FORCE

Nerve Force is so much like Electricity, and the latter is so much better understood, that we have used this vivid telephone picture to illustrate what takes place in the human system when the connecting nerve fibres are deranged or something goes wrong at Central.

In the nervous system the brain is the Central where the Nerve Force is created, and whence are issued the orders which control the whole human body. Here is consumed one-fifth of the blood in the human body, and when the blood supply is deficient in quality or quantity, the brain and the nervous system are first to feel the effects.

Neuralgic pains and headaches, inability to rest or sleep or concentrate the mind, dizziness and noises in the ears, are some of the symptoms of a starved nervous system.

Just as machinery lags when the current of electricity fails, so the bodily organs weaken when the supply of nerve force runs low. Digestion is impaired and you lose appetite, the liver, kidneys and bowels are slow in performing their functions, the heart's action weakens, circulation is slow, hands and feet are cold, you are easily tired, lose ambition and grow downhearted and discouraged.

This describes the condition under which Dr. Chase's Nerve Food can prove of greatest assistance to you. Forming new, rich blood it feeds the starved, exhausted nerve and brain cells back to health and vigor. The new vital, nerve force flows out through the intricate system of nerve fibres to every member and every organ of the body, carrying new vigor, energy and strength and driving out pain, weakness and disease.

Money in Hogs

Canada in a Good Position to Develop a Permanent Bacon Trade

As is well known, hogs have reached an unprecedented high level—$11.68 per cwt., being paid for, fed and watered on the Toronto market. The fact that, even with live hogs at this figure, shipments of bacon are regular, going forward to England, will serve to illustrate very clearly the demand for that product on the British market. Without doubt, Canada stands in a better position today to develop a permanent bacon trade with Great Britain than has ever been the case before. To do this, however, there must be volume of supply. There is very good reason to believe that, although prices cannot be expected to remain at the present high level, the demand for bacon, in the face of the supply that can be obtained, will be such as to hold the market in a very firm condition, both during and for a considerable period following the war.

Great Britain's imports of bacon in 1915 amounted to £25,441,460. From Canada she obtained only £3,224,511. The fact that Canadian bacon has been selling at an advance from 10 to 12s. per cwt. above American and at not more than 12s. under the nominal quotation for Danish, illustrates clearly to what extent Canada could increase her export trade, had she a sufficient quantity of hogs to make this possible. The English market and the British consumer will buy Canadian bacon today, quality being equal, in preference to that from any other country in the world, with the possible exception of Ireland. Not only so, but an enormous market exists also for ham, frozen pork and pork cuts of various descriptions. This market is as remunerative as the bacon trade, although it is not likely to prove as constant.

The West is producing a great quantity of rough grain this year. As compared with wheat, it will probably be relatively low in price. It is possible, however, that a sound mustiness proposition, or a sound mustiness proposition, will be found in many cases this spring as would provide each farm with such a number of feed for its own use as can be conveniently handled and suitably finished. They should, however, be so selected and mated as to maintain the approved human type. This, if done, we cannot compete with Ireland and Denmark and will lose status on the British market. The development of our bacon trade is a purely commercial undertaking and we must early recognize that we cannot sell to the British merchant unless we give him what he wants. This granted, thrifty management and good feeding should yield a return this year which will more than compensate for all the labor involved.

Cheapest of All Oils.—Considering the current quality of oil, the Electric Oil, it is the cheapest of all preparations offered to the public. It is to be found in every drug store in Canada, and is sold to coast and all country merchants keep it for sale. So, being easily procurable and extremely moderate in price, no one should be without a bottle of it.

The French Government has promised the spring farmers $1.73 per bushel for all the spring wheat they grow this year.

Helmets Prevent Blindness

"We are parting today," an American nurse writes from a hospital, "with our last blind boy, who is going off to a special school to be put in the way of getting his living poor fellow. We have had no fresh eye cases lately, and I do not doubt that this must in great measure be due to the new steel casques, whose real value is shown by the case of one of my patients. The bullet struck the 'peak' of his helmet, but was deflected, and had open his forehead in a long diagonal. The doctors say if it had not struck straight at the point of impact, it would certainly have blinded him."

Insects as Human Food

Will Take a Lot of Education Before
Edible Bugs Become Popular

Dr. L. O. Howard, chief of the bureau of entomology of the department of agriculture, Washington, is quoted as saying there is no reason why people may not eat bugs. He says insect soup can be made which is very nourishing and appetizing.

Of course, if the doctor is quite correct, a new source of food supply is at once open to the general public, but it will undoubtedly be necessary to do a lot of educating before the American public will take largely and kindly to the use of mosquito, beetle or fly. Baked grasshopper, pudding or pie, pinching hash and such dishes will have to make their way to public favor by slow degrees.

It may be true that adding insects to the diet list will reduce the cost of living. But it is not in this way that the average consumer wants the reduction made. What is wanted is luxury at low prices. The statesman who can produce them by means of a plank or two in a party platform will earn the proverbial gratitude of republicans.

Meanwhile, those who want to join the John the Baptists and the diet of locusts and wild honey are welcome to do so. For masses will not relinquish their prejudice against bugs in soup or flies in tea at the mere desire of a few biologists in Washington or elsewhere.—From the Detroit Free Press.

Wonderful Bilious Remedy Actually Prevents Attacks

There are two great causes of biliousness,—they are constipation and defective liver action.

When Dr. Hamilton's Pills are taken, they not only correct constipated bowels, but act upon the liver as well.

Quite unlike ordinary medicines which purge and give temporary relief, Dr. Hamilton's Pills remove the conditions which cause biliousness, and thus permanent cures are effected. No person who occasionally uses Dr. Hamilton's Pills will ever suffer from the headache, bad stomach or bilious complaints. Get a 25c. box today.

Easy to Talk

According to the following anecdote our blockade of Germany has been much more effective than certain newspapers will admit. At a recent banquet the Belgian Consul, H. L. de Givry, said:

"I have just heard an anecdote about the German food-famine."

"A regiment of Landsturm men were setting out for the front from Berlin. The usual crowd were seeing the old boys off—an anxious, silent crowd. But finally there was one chap who screwed up spirit enough to shout, 'Long live Germany!'"

"At this a gray-whiskered Landsturm man turned round and yelled out, 'Schifflich! at the shoulder. 'What on?'"

Lightning Rods Efficient

Statistics Show That Danger From
Lightning is Greatly Lessened

The efficiency of lightning rods may be estimated at ninety-nine per cent," says the report of the United States Bureau of Standards, after digesting the reports of farm mutual fire insurance companies and state fire marshals. As the report took account of every kind, both new and old, good and bad, these figures give strong support to the use of lightning rods. Four hundred and sixty houses noted as being struck by lightning were occupied at the time by families. In two hundred fifty-four cases out of the four hundred sixty, one or more persons were either severely injured or killed. But two or three of these houses were reported as having rods, so it might be concluded from these figures that in the case of an unrodded house being struck, the chances that all of the occupants will escape harm are about forty-five out of each hundred.

A Silent Salesman

Many manufacturers of machinery that is too heavy or too bulky to be sent for inspection to a prospective customer now give their travelling salesman sets of motion pictures that show exactly how the machines work. The salesmen carry small, light motion-picture projectors that can be connected with the lighting circuit in the office of the customer. A blank wall serves for a screen. Since the motion picture is independent of the seasons, the salesman can show a harvester at work in winter or a seeder or planter in the fall. The films help him to overcome the instinctive opposition that many buyers of machinery and equipment display toward new apparatus and new methods. Such men will not listen to the salesman or go to see the new machine in operation, but they will look at the motion pictures.—Engineering Magazine.

Easy to Talk

According to the following anecdote our blockade of Germany has been much more effective than certain newspapers will admit. At a recent banquet the Belgian Consul, H. L. de Givry, said:

"I have just heard an anecdote about the German food-famine."

"A regiment of Landsturm men were setting out for the front from Berlin. The usual crowd were seeing the old boys off—an anxious, silent crowd. But finally there was one chap who screwed up spirit enough to shout, 'Long live Germany!'"

"At this a gray-whiskered Landsturm man turned round and yelled out, 'Schifflich! at the shoulder. 'What on?'"

For several weeks a wounded soldier had had no solid food—nothing but milk. At length the doctor told him that the next day he could have a light meal, and the soldier, greatly rejoicing, conjured up visions of underdone beefsteak, potatoes, cheese, and so on. What he was given for his first meal, however, was about a tablespoonful of tapioca. He swallowed it, growing and grumbling.

The Guaranty Plan in Canada

Dominion Headquarters at Montreal.
STANDARDIZED CREDIT FOR TIME-PAID CARS.

Automobile buyers and sellers are interested in the Guaranty Securities Corporation's announcement that complete Canadian headquarters have been established in the National Trust Building, Montreal.

This means that the Guaranty Plan of Time-Payments on cars is now made available to purchasers and dealers throughout the Dominion.

What the Guaranty Plan assures to the motor world here is indicated by what L. R. Beebe local dealer in the Ford car has to say regarding the success in the United States.

In its twelve months operation across the line, it has won the endorsement and co-operation of the leading manufacturers and financiers. The soundness of its business principles and the safeguards with which it surrounds the credit-sale of cars have secured for it the moral support of some of the most important financial interests in the United States.

That the buying public heartily approves of the plan is seen in the purchase of many thousands of cars on this plan. To the responsible purchaser, who, for personal reasons, desires credit in his purchase, it particularly appeals through the absolute privacy of the whole transaction.

Over half the dealers in the United States registered to sell on the Guaranty Plan within the first thirty days following the announcement. They were quick to see the advantages of being able to sell cars on the time payment plan, and get most of the cash immediately without sacrificing a penny of their full legitimate profit.

When it is considered that for the past several years, the majority of retail motor-car sales have been made on some form of credit, the big out-standing advantage of the Guaranty Plan is plainly perceived.

It substitutes for many miscellaneous forms of credit, a single standardized credit of national scope. It eliminates the "personal element" from time transactions. It makes the sale of cars at retail the simplest and safest installment transaction there is in the world.

It strengthens the dealers credit standing, and preserves the buyers bank account.

The growing need of cars among responsible men in every community makes the Guaranty Plan not only a big boon to business, but a genuine public benefit.

And as such, the Guaranty Securities Corporation with its tremendous resources and modernized methods is assured of cordial support by the automobile industry and motor car purchasers of Canada.

Canada's casualties have been 33,000 since war began

The casualty reports from the front are gradually diminishing. The number this week is considerably below that of previous weeks.

From the battle of Hooze the losses were about 13,000, which is a conservative figure. This makes the grand total something like 33,000, since the war began.

Casualties have come in at the rate of 600 or 700 a day since the fight at Hooze.

No Man's Land is an eerie sight
At early dawn in the pale gray light,
Never a house and never a hedge
In No Man's Land from edge to edge
And never a living soul walked there
To taste the fresh of the morning air
Only some lumps of rotting clay
That were friends or foemen yesterday

What are the bounds of No Man's Land?
You can see them clearly on either hand
A mound of rag bags gray in the sun
Or a furrow of ground where the earthworks run
From the eastern hills to the western sea,
Thro' field or forest, o'er river or lea,
No man may pass there, but aim you well
And death rides across on the bullet or shell.

But No Man's Land is a goblin sight
When patrols crawl over at dead of night,
Boche or British, Belge or French,
You die with Death when you cross the trench
When the "rapid", like fireflies in the dark
Flits down the parapet spark by spark
And you drop for cover to keep your head

With your face on the breast of the four-months-dead.

The man who ranges in No Man's Land
Is dogged by the shadows on either hand,
When the star-shell's flare, as it bursts
Scars the great grey rats that feed on the dead.
And the bursting bomb or the bayonet snatch
May answer the click of your safety-catch.
For the lone patrol with his life in his hand
Is hunting for blood in No Man's Land.

WHAT THE ALLIANCE BETWEEN GREAT BRITAIN AND RUSSIA MEANS

ABSOLUTE ACCORD BETWEEN GREAT NATIONS

Sergius Sazanoff, the Russian Minister, Says That It Has Become An Alliance of the Hearts of the People, and That It Will Assure the Peace of the World

"The absolute accord between Great Britain and Russia means that the alliance formed in time of war against a common enemy has become an alliance for all time."

Thus spoke Sergius Sazanoff, the Russian Foreign Minister, in an interview with The London Times Petrograd correspondent.

"The alliance made by the Governments has now become an alliance of the hearts of the people," continued M. Sazanoff. "In this friendship I see the realization of the noblest dream of my career, for in the true friendship of England and Russia the peace of the world is assured for many generations. We have thus not only won the war, although the struggle itself may continue for years. Crystallization of the idea, that England, France and Russia cannot be alienated establishes the certainty that the Central Powers have lost no matter how they may be fortified and internal sacrifice postpone the inevitable day of the admission of their failure."

"With the realization of the Entente's amity and unity must come also the permanent dissipation of the mischievous idea that the Russians are a people of ambition and aggressive design, planning to advance their own aims at the expense of Europe. Nothing is further from the Russian character. With our southern outlet made irrevocably secure in perpetuity, with the legitimate growth of our economic and industrial life secured, with our boundaries suitably adjusted and our fellow-Slavs assured of their due, the destinies and aims of Russia in the future are fulfilled. We can then turn to the true aspirations of the Russian Government and people, namely, the development of the Russian Empire, and the furthering of the interests of the nation's peoples embraced within our empire."

Russia and Poland

Poles Have Faith in Russia's Pledges to Their Country

Russian dailies of importance, including the Slovo of Moscow, understand that Emperor William is persuaded by the solemn renewal of the Czar's pledge to Poland. Poland will be a nation, using her own tongue, teaching her own culture in her schools of all grades up to university itself, declared Mr. Sazanoff to the Duma. Germany, he said, in effect, will grant Poland independence. That the episode became dramatic when the Polish deputy in the Duma, Dr. Hauswiesner, affirmed that his country is irrevocably free because they have sworn fealty to the principle of nationality. The Poles, he added, believe in the Russian pledge of a unification of dismembered Poland. They see in the words of Premier Sturmer the promise of a Polish nation governing itself with the Czar as a constitutional sovereign. The form of the words was held but the French press is a unit in deeming the Polish deputy correct. If the details supplied by the Figaro are correct, Poles throughout the world are for the most part assured of the good faith of the Russian pledges. Even the somewhat suspicious Homme Enchaîné, edited by Clemenceau, is convinced that the Poles are justified in their acceptance of the Czar's pledges to their country.

Affects the United States

The assumption that the war is an ordinary one and that this country is not related to it is baseless, as effort for nearly two years has been made in these columns to show. Ideas are at stake that vitally affect us. The question has been as to whether the world was to continue the development of a democratic nationalism, or whether it was to become militarily imperialistic. When the war broke Rome it determined the future of Greece. Even more intimately our fate will be decided by the character of the peace made in Europe. They are dreamers taking no note of facts, that do not realize that this country has become part of the world and must participate in its major affairs. —New York Globe.

All the Men Off

Seven brothers, the total adult male population of Campbell Island, have enlisted in the 17th reinforcement. Campbell Island is situated some 400 miles south of New Zealand, in the Pacific Ocean, and is a dependency of the New Zealand Empire. It was discovered in 1840 by the brig Perseverance owned by Mr. Robert Campbell, of Sydney. It is mountainous, about 30 miles in circumference and has several good harbors. —New Zealand Dispatch.

The Belgian Relief BACK TO THE LAND MOVEMENT

Persistent Rumor That Funds For Sufferers are Diverted Is Denied

Reports still persist that the German occupants of Belgium are profiting by the importation of foodstuffs under the supervision of the Belgian Relief Committee. The latest report to this effect appears to have emanated from the French newspaper "Le Temps," Paris.

Mr. H. de Hoover, the head of the relief committee, firmly denies the truth of this. He has frequently made such denials and he again states that all food and all supplies shipped through the Belgian relief committee and its branches is assured of safe delivery to its destination. Early in the work of the committee small portions of the food were taken from local depots by the Germans, but in every instance, after affairs were straightened out, this food was paid for and the money placed to the credit of the Belgians.

As a matter of fact, there is no other way in which food can be sent to Belgium except through the Belgian relief committee. This committee just now has its work cut out for it. The conditions in Belgium are rapidly growing worse until now there are seven million people almost wholly dependent on this organization for their daily food. The immense financial drain to meet this demand can hardly be imagined.

To meet this the committee is sending out new appeals and directing them particularly to prosperous Canada. The Belgian relief committee, 50 St. Peter Street, Montreal, is receiving the donations of foodstuffs from Canadians. Has yours gone forward yet?

Savings of People

S. W. Strauss, of Chicago, president of the American Society for Thrift, in contributing a short article on "The Spectre of Pauperism" to the January number of Leslie's Weekly Illustrated, gives some startling figures and facts.

He pointed out that in the United States 64 out of every 100 people that he leave estate whatever. Of the remaining 36 only 9 leave more than $5,000, and the average is a little less than $1,700 for the balance of 25.

He further pointed out that at age sixty-five, 97 out of every 100 people are partly or wholly dependent upon relatives, friends or the public for food, clothing and shelter. In the United States 98 per cent. of the people are living from day to day on their wages, and that the same condition would mean pauperism for all but 2 per cent.

Wonderful British Sub Feat

Nose of E-Boat Smashed by Explosion, Yet Her Strength and Her Efficient Mechanism Saved It

In a certain dockyard in England there is to be found a splendid tribute to the process of British submarines and the skill of those who man them.

It is one of the finest of the British under-sea boats, which, with her bow twisted and bent as the result of a collision with an enemy mine in enemy waters, covered a distance of almost three hundred miles under her own power and arrived safely in a home port. Through the courtesy of the British Admiralty the correspondent was permitted to see this submarine and to talk with her officers and crew.

She is in harbor with her bow facing into strips and two of her torpedo tubes crushed. Her plates are broken away from the bow; but in her bow are two secondary tubes. They are facing in and out, and the bow is twisted and bent as the result of a collision with an enemy mine in enemy waters, covered a distance of almost three hundred miles under her own power and arrived safely in a home port.

When I looked at her lying there with her exposed tubes shining in the sunlight and her bulkheads in strips of twisted metal, it was hardly possible to believe that she had been under the coast guns of the enemy, that she could have made in her damaged condition a journey of three hundred miles, returning to a safe harbor with the information that she had been sent to obtain. And added to this was the fact that she had made the voyage in a high sea; that for twenty hours, defenceless, she evaded the enemy patrol.

"I had heard stories of German submarines sunk by a single shot, so I asked one of the officers how this boat had survived the tremendous shock of the mine explosion."

"She held because of her strength," he said. "It broke her nose and it tore off two of her bulkheads. But she held. The efficiency of the pumps was not impaired. Within two minutes we had them working."

He asked me if I would not go below and see the marks of the disaster. So I followed him across a gangway and upon the narrow iron deck which already was beginning to show red patches of rust. The hatch was open. Below I could see a white compartment with brass fittings.

TEACHING THE ADVANTAGES OF RURAL LIFE

Should be the Duty of Canadians to go out and Possess the Land, The Good, Green Earth, Which is the Foundation of Whatever Prosperity Our Country Enjoys

Why do the newspapers of the country devote so little attention to the movement known as "Back to the Land?" A united press following out a concerted policy in this regard could secure much more in a single year than any other known agency in a decade. No one would have the hardihood to deny that a large general movement, reducing the disproportion between the urban and farming populations, would automatically produce economic, social and moral changes of immense importance and value to the entire country.

What should be the ground of such an appeal? It should be the duty and privilege of Canadians to go out and possess the land, the good green earth, the real foundation of whatever prosperity our country enjoys. The land is the basis of our life. The war will be over some day, and the immigrant will again be knocking at our gates. These people are coming, and they will come with a clear understanding of the situation—a clearer understanding than our people seem to have. They know the meaning and value of life close to the soil. It means independence, comfort, a home.

Our city men should take heed. The pioneer and the city dweller have equal opportunities, free land, wide spaces, cannot last much longer. If our city dwellers, struggling in the crowded occupations of modern life, do not seize the moment and act, there are hosts of people ready to grasp the prize which lies before them, and the sons and daughters of Canadians of the present generation will be landless.

When Germans Find Out

The German people must demand to know, sooner or later, whether their armies are in sooth winning this war. If they are winning it they must demand that as their smallest reward there shall be given to them bread and meat to sustain them in their labors to keep an invincible army afield achieving such glorious victories.

He further pointed out that at age sixty-five, 97 out of every 100 people are partly or wholly dependent upon relatives, friends or the public for food, clothing and shelter. In the United States 98 per cent. of the people are living from day to day on their wages, and that the same condition would mean pauperism for all but 2 per cent.

Our country people should take heed. Their younger sons and daughters should go out and possess the land instead of drifting into the cities. What folly for the children to throw away the gifts which were won for them by the courage, endurance and thrift of their pioneering fathers and mothers who made this country!

These much-enduring pioneers themselves can, if they will, do much to secure for their children the heritage now too lightly esteemed. Let them take a real pride in their calling and their achievements. Let them preach in season and out of season the advantages of rural life. They have with good reason an abiding faith and confidence in the goodness of the land they own and live on. Let them extend their patriotic faith a little beyond the boundaries of their own farms, and they will have a clear understanding of the situation—a clearer understanding than our people seem to have. They know the meaning and value of life close to the soil. It means independence, comfort, a home.

An Impression Of Kitchener

Not Always Popular, But Always Adored by the British Soldiers

In the book "With Kitchener to Khartoum," G. W. Stevens summed up his impressions of the "Organizer of Victory" in terms that have stood the test of time and change. He wrote, "straight as a lance, and looks out imperiously above most men's heads; his motions are deliberate and strong; for tireless, steel wire endurance rather than for power or agility; that is irrelevant. Steady, passionate eyes, shaded by decisive brows, quick red, rather full cheeks; a long mustache beneath which you divine an immovable mouth; his face is harsh, and neither appeals for affection nor stirs dislike. All this is irrelevant, too; neither, age nor figure, nor face, nor any such thing as a man's bearing on the sward. You could imagine the character just the same if all the externals were different. He has no soft but, in fact, nobody but one to carry his mind, no face but one to keep his brain behind. The brain and the will are the essence and the whole of the man's brain and a will so perfect in their workings that, in the face of the extreme difficulty, they never seem to know what stress or strain is. You could imagine the sardar otherwise than as seeing the right thing to do and doing it. His precision is so inhumanly unerring, a moral and a machine, than a man—other generals have been loved; none was ever better trusted—for Anglo-Egypt he is the mahdi, the expected, the man who has aided experience and corrected error, who has worked at small things and waited for great; marble set still and firm as a snail; steadfast, cold, and inflexible; the man who has cut out his human heart and made himself a machine to retake Khartoum."

This was just on twenty-two years ago. George Stevens died in Ladysmith, and the brilliant hand was not available to chronicle the same relentless methods by which Kitchener brought to an end the Boer war.

In all the bitter campaign levelled against him in recent months Lord Kitchener had never found for a moment any such faith and the ungrudging support of the common people has failed him. He did not seek popularity—rather, he pursued it. There was something in his stern patience, his hard rectitude, his whole-souled devotion, that appealed unerringly to the imagination of the British people. Feared though he was, he was adored by the private soldier, and sorrow and a personal sense of loss enters today the humblest home in Britain.

Movie Attendance is Astonishing

"The greatest inspirations which come to writers for motion pictures is in the knowledge of the size of their audience. In the year 1915 there were roughly 2,900,000,000 paid admissions to the moving picture theatres of the United States. This means an average attendance of 29 times per year for every man, woman and child in the country. For the first time in the history of the world, the average man, woman and child in the country, figures like these imply a great responsibility on the part of those who supply the demand, and men are now entering the field who are by training and artistic qualities to accept the responsibility."
